Drunk in love

Blown away by the wind of love
To the world of magical sparks
Swimming in a blue sea full of bubbles
Alone with thou my beloved

Let my feet sail on the sea
Let the waters move me to the bank
Let my eyes turn red like blood
As I lightly float on the sea

To be found in thy arms my beloved
With warm but airtight cuddles
Having no fear of drown or suffocation
As I shot my eyes with a sniff of thy fragrance

Let my body hairs coil calmly
Let them sleep and never rise
Let the sky stare with jealousy
As our bodies are showered with kisses

My heart melts like wax
Over thy soft and gentle touch
A deep breath of calmness unleashed
With sweet melodies from thy lips

How I wish to be trapped in thy arms
And stare delightfully into thy eyes
To let go of true words of love
And embraced by your words of affection

Let me hold thy hand forever
That our love may be sealed forever
Let my blood flow through thy veins
To remain in love as long as we live.
